Clean Up The World 2012

Clean Up the World is an initiative of Australia which was launched internationally in 1993 with the support of the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). Every year, during the 3rd week of September, different activities are undertaken under this initiative by some 35 million people in around 130 countries.

The theme for this year’s campaign is ‘Our Place… Our Planet… Our Responsibility’. The theme is a reminder to the world population that it is the responsibility of each and everyone of us to undertake actions to protect our local area, our country and our planet for the benefit of the present and future generations.
